

Cece's
Publishing House

honest books, carefully made

BOOK FACT SHEET

Cece Once Said

a collection of poems by Cece

“Rose from the soil I was pushed under.”

THE BOOK IN ONE SENTENCE

A young Technion engineering student from Maghar publishes an illustrated English poetry collection about depression, grief and survival, written from the other side.

DETAILS

AUTHOR	Cece
PUBLISHER	Cece's Publishing House
PUBLISHED	Early 2027
FORMAT	Paperback, full color, 6 × 9 in, 116 pages; ebook
ISBN	[coming]
ILLUSTRATIONS	Adam Yassin
PRICE	Signed pre-order ₪90 · ₪100 at events · $19.99 paperback online · $4.99 ebook

ABOUT THE BOOK

Cece Once Said is a debut collection of 84 poems, written from the other side of the darkest years of a young life. Moving through seven sections, from roots and inheritance, through confinement, love and ruin, descent, grief and loss, to grace and return, Cece writes about depression, self-harm, family, first love and grief with unflinching honesty and a stubborn search for light.

Written between childhood notebooks and engineering lectures, these poems hold softness and fire side by side: the tenderness of someone who sees good in people, and the ache of someone who has carried more than she should. It is a book for anyone fighting an invisible battle, and for anyone who loves someone who is.

PRESS CONTACT

saraharaide.com/publishing/contact · Instagram & TikTok: @cece_once_said